

Giovanni Silvestrini

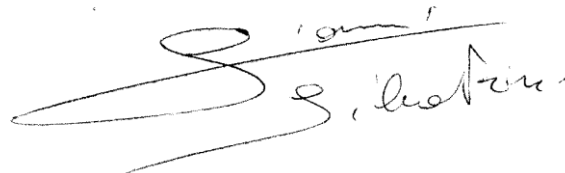

Since 1983 he was involved in energy efficiency and renewable energies at the National Research Council and at Polytechnic of Milano where he launched the Master “Ridef – Reinvent energy 2.0” that in 2022 reached its Seventeenth edition (www.master-ridef.polimi.it).

At the institutional level he has acted as general director at the Ministry of Environment and as energy advisor of the Minister of Economic Development. He is the scientific director of the Kyoto Club and of the magazine/website Qualenergia and president of Exalto Energy&Innovation.

He is author of more than 100 scientific papers and co-authored 6 books (“Solar Architecture”, 1984; “The future of sun”, 1990, “The race of the green economy”, 2010, “2°C, Disruptive innovations to win the climate challenge and transform the economy”, 2016, “The climate traps”, 2020, “The future of renewable energy”, 2022).

Palermo 29/06/2022

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'G. Silvestrini'. The signature is stylized with a large, sweeping initial 'G'.