Profile Summary

He graduated in 'Progettazione dell'Architettura' from the Politecnico di Milano and obtained a master's degree with honours in 'Architettura e Disegno Urbano' from the same institution in 2021. He successfully passed the State Examination to qualify as an architect in the second session of 2022.

After completing his master's degree, he was involved in public space projects, such as the Vespucci waterfront in San Cataldo (Lecce) and the Rocca del Boiardo square in Scandiano (Reggio Emilia), and provided consultancy services for the development of urban plans, for the municipalities of Lecce, in Puglia, and Nova Milanese, in Lombardia.

He is currently pursuing a PhD in Urban Planning, Design, and Policy (UPDP) at the Politecnico di Milano. His research focuses on Italian coastal territories, exploring the potential of Planned Retreat of urbanised coastlines as a multi-purpose strategy.

He conducts his research within a DASTU's team involved in the PNRR-funded national project PE9 - GRINS (Growing, Resilient, Inclusive, and Sustainable) SPOKE 7, which aims to develop new infrastructural models and strategies to support the socio-ecological transition of the 'Italia di mezzo', that is the plurality of territories that are neither metropolises nor inner areas, but rather consist of medium-sized and small towns, scattered villages and houses, rural landscapes, work spaces and warehouses, and networks of roads and railways: the Italian province.

Since 2021, he has collaborated in teaching urban planning studios in bachelor's and master's degree programmes at the Politecnico di Milano. During the last academic year, he provided teaching support for the urban planning studio led by Professors Andrea Rigon and Marco Peverini in Castel Volturno, and the master's studio studying the peri-urban area of Perugia led by Professors Christian Novak and Francesco Curci.

3. Teaching Assistance Activities

September 2025 – February 2026

Master studio: Perugia/2

Course: Progettazione Urbanistica

Master Degree: Architettura e Disegno Urbano

School: AUIC, Politecnico di Milano

Professors: Christian Novak and Arturo Lanzani

Il laboratorio è stato sviluppato nel territorio di Perugia e ha affrontato il tema delle infrastrutture del quotidiano e la vivibilità nei quartieri Ferro di cavallo, San Giovanni, San Sisto e le frazioni lungo il Tevere.

February 2025 – June 2025

Bachelor studio: Castel Volturno

Course: Urban Planning

Bachelor Degree: Architecture

School: AUIC, Politecnico di Milano

Professors: Andrea Rigon and Marco Peverini

Building on the development of a framework that employs anti-fragility as a lens for analyzing urban planning and the asymmetric power relations within cities, the studio also addressed climate change and housing as two concrete issue-areas through which spatial and social relations unfold in urban territories.

The laboratory focused on the Destra Volturno neighbourhood: a context characterized by a constellation of coexisting challenges. In this setting, I supervised student group work, with particular emphasis on teams investigating mobility and coastal dynamics, and during the initial phase I co-ordinated the organisation of a public seminar series, 'Planning for Anti-fragility', held in collaboration with Craft.

September 2024 – February 2025

Master studio: Perugia/1

Course: Progettazione Urbanistica

Master Degree: Architettura e Disegno Urbano

School: AUIC, Politecnico di Milano

Professors: Christian Novak and Francesco Curci

The studio was developed in the territory of Perugia and dealt with peri-urban spaces, in their different declinations concerning infrastructures, accessibility to the historic centre, and their agricultural, ecological and fruitive role. This is an articulated area that includes the ancient walls of the historic city, the valleys and large agricultural and wooded spaces, the public open spaces in the modern and contemporary city in contact with natural and artificial elements (rivers, infrastructures, hills, valleys, interchange nodes, productive areas, public service poles, etc.).

September 2023 – February 2024

Master studio: Lecce/2

Course: Progettazione Urbanistica

Master Degree: Architettura e Disegno Urbano (Polimi)

Professors: Francesco Curci and Sara Caramaschi

The course explores the fields of action of urban design in contexts connoted by a socio-economic transition that poses new questions to technical knowledge and its tradition. The course experiments with new forms of urban design useful for addressing the emerging problems of contemporary territories; constructs analyses and critical representations in parallel with the definition of argued design alternatives; and tests the relationship between the spatial transformation of landscapes, the regulatory dimension of urban design and its feasibility on political, social and economic levels. Finally, the workshop looks carefully at the crucial issues of territorial identity at a time when new life cycles need to be imagined for existing settlement structures from a sustainable development perspective.

The workshop studied the city of Lecce, particularly the areas around the historic centre built since the late 19th century and significantly revised during the 20th century, especially during the fascist era. My task was to follow the students in the discovery and design of their study areas, and, during the course, I gave lectures on the representation of urban planning strategies and case studies on the redevelopment of public spaces in the context of the historic centre.

February 2023 – June 2023

Bachelor studio: Milano/Corvetto

Course: Urbanistica

Bachelor Degree: Progettazione dell'Architettura

School: AUIC, Politecnico di Milano

Professors: Chiara Merlini and Claudia Parenti

In the first phase, the course focused on studying and reading the public space, particularly in the city of Milan. Later, the design exercise focused on the redevelopment of the southern part of the Corvetto neighbourhood.

September 2022 – February 2023

Master studio: Lecce/1

Course: Urbanistica

Master Degree: Architettura e Disegno Urbano

School: AUIC, Politecnico di Milano

Professors: Christian Novak and Francesco Curci

February 2022 – June 2022

Bachelor studio: Milano/Comasina

Course: Urbanistica

Bachelor Degree: Progettazione dell'Architettura

School: AUIC, Politecnico di Milano

Professors: Chiara Merlini and Claudia Parenti

In the first phase, the course focused on studying and reading the public space, particularly in the city of Milan. Later, the design exercise focused on the redevelopment and design of a new part of the Comasina neighbourhood, in the northern suburbs of Milan, which would lead to an increase in inhabitants. During the course, I gave a lecture on how to build and design an urban planning strategy through the presentation of the strategy for the PGT of Nova Milanese.
